Fats Oils & Grease

It doesn't stop at the kitchen sink....

Fats, Oils and Grease (FOG), the residue left over from cooking meats such as bacon that hardens after it cools can cause problems when poured down the drain and clog pipes in your home. This same grease also clogs the sewer pipes under the street that takes the wastewater from your home to the treatment plant. When this occurs, the wastewater will back up and come to the surface, polluting the environment. This allows untreated sewage to run into the streets and into our storm drains. This is not only a human health hazard, but also since storm drains flow to creeks and rivers, this can cause significant environmental damage and impact aquatic life forms. You can avoid unnecessary sewer repairs, expense and damage to the city sewer system by following a few simple rules.

Do Not Put Grease Down the Drain!!

Do Not Put Frying Oil Down the Drain!!

Do Not Put Food Scraps Down the Drain!!
